

Acknowledgments

This e-book could not be realised without the contribution of all those involved in the movements with which it deals as well as the critical support of many university teachers and students.

We would like to especially thank Lucia Scromov and the collective ALANA for inspiring us to organise and participate – as research team “Invisible Cities” – to a series of events at Aristotle University, in Veria and Thessaloniki, on issues such as: the urban movements in Brazil and Haiti, the movement of Oaxaca, the occupied factories in Argentina, and the Zapatistas.

Certainly during the early years of this project that was born in a newly created university department, the most important role was played by the members of the research group “Invisible Cities”, which were then students in the Department of Spatial Planning and Development, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, and today most of them are PhD candidates in different universities: Joanna Papachristou, Marianna Karakosta, Elina Manika, Afroditi Basiouka, Vivian Doumpa, Chrysa Anagnostou, Margarita Samoili, which we would also like to thank.

The project was transferred then to Mytilene keeping however strong ties with Thessaloniki. The new research group “Invisible Cities” organised a series of events on Latin America issues and authored a series of undergraduate and postgraduate diploma thesis and other works concerning urban and regional movements, as well as a new thematic related to immigration and the city. Louisa Georgila worked on the movement against gold mining in Chalkidiki, Orestis and Dimitris Stavropoulos, Matina Ambatzi and the postgraduate student Stergios Psifis studied the movement of street art, Sotiris Axiotis, Elena Katsenou, Eleni Koutsouri and the postgraduate students Anna Micheli, Xeni Alexiou and Elena Artemi worked on urban landscapes, immigration, public space and common goods. We thank them all and hope that they will continue to support the project in its next steps.

For the collection of the articles presented in this book certain encounters have contributed decisively. We note the most important: the INURA conferences, the workshop “Encounters and conflicts in the city” in the Department of Architecture, Aristotle University of Thessaloniki, the seminars on «urban landscapes and the poetic of urban movements» organised by Cesar Cisneros and the university UAB- I in the city of Mexico, some courses in the Greek Open University, as well as many encounters that took place in squats like the squat of the workers union of VIOME (Thessaloniki), the squat of theater Empros (Athens), the open selforganized refugee and migrants camp PIKPA (Lesvos) etc.

We would also like to especially thank the reviewers of the e-book texts who contributed to their selection and best writing: Michalis Psimitis, Stavros Stavrides, Antonis Vradis, Alexandros Kioupkiolis, Maria Jaidopulu Vrijea, Nikos Pratsinis and Kriton Iliopoulos, as well as the President Eleni Briassouli and the technicians Ioanni Dimou and Gavriil Chiotelli of the Department of Geography, University of the Aegean, who contributed to the post of the e-book online.

Finally we would like to thank our companions who have helped throughout the collection and writing of the texts of this book and particularly all those involved in the movements with which they deal, who continue to provide us with force and dreams for the change of the social system and the creation of a world that will contain many worlds.
